Q: What are your best tips for exploring NYC like a local?

A: New Yorkers really love their mornings; it's one of the most peaceful and authentic times to experience the city. Starting your day early lets you enjoy New York while the streets are quieter.

Q: What should be on every visitor's "bucket list" when visiting?

A: A New York bucket list is different for everyone, depending on what you like, but there are a few things everyone should try. Visiting Times Square, the Statue of Liberty, and walking across the Brooklyn Bridge are must-dos. A walk through Central Park, stopping at the Boathouse or Belvedere Castle, is also wonderful. If you love theater, a Broadway show is a must, and opera fans will enjoy the Metropolitan Opera. Art lovers shouldn't miss the Metropolitan Museum of Art, which has incredible works from around the world.

Q: What's an excellent spot to capture a great selfie?

A: For a perfect selfie, I recommend Top of the Rock with the Empire State Building in the background, Times Square, the new observation deck at One Times Square, or the park along the river in DUMBO with its amazing view of Manhattan.

Q: What is the best suggestion you can give a first-time visitor?

A: For a first-time visitor, I highly recommend starting your adventure with a double-decker bus tour. It's an easy and comfortable way to get an overview of the city without worrying about navigating public transportation. You and your family can see many of New York City's iconic sights while relaxing on the bus. The best part is the flexibility: you can hop off at major attractions, explore at your own pace, and then hop back on to continue to the next destination. It's a great way to make the most of your time in the city.

New York City's Best Boat Tours

By Alexis Mucci

There are many ways to explore all New York City offers, like walking, a quick train ride or a view from above. However, one of the best ways to take a tour is by boat. Dozens of sailboats, yachts and ferries leave the city's piers daily and travel along the East River and New York Harbor. You'll never look at the city in the same way again after taking a voyage on one of these boat tours.

It isn't easy to see all of New York City in one day, but Circle Line is determined to try, thanks to their Best of NYC cruise. This cruise leaves out of Pier 83 and takes passengers on a complete circle around Manhattan Island. You'll have the perfect view of every landmark on their outdoor decks, such as the Empire State Building, the Brooklyn Bridge and Yankee Stadium! There's even an opportunity to take a picture at the Statue of Liberty at its photo stop and munch on a sandwich or salad, thanks to the cafe on board. The tour lasts two and a half hours, so it's the perfect way to see everything you want in one afternoon.

New York City is known as "the city that never sleeps," thanks to the thousands of lights lit up at night. If you genuinely want to see what it looks like at that time, take a ride on City Lights Cruise on Yacht Manhattan from Classic Harbor Line. Passengers leave Chelsea Piers on a 1920s-inspired yacht to find the city skyline aglow against the night sky. The ship sails around New York Harbor in a climate-controlled cabin, so you won't have to worry about the weather stopping your nighttime voyage. This is the perfect cruise to take if you're looking for a different kind of date night.

If you're looking for a more exciting way to see the city by water, take a ride on The BEAST Speedboat. This speedboat leaves Pier 83 to send passengers on a fast-paced tour of New York Harbor. The Beast rides to the Statue of Liberty and back, thanks to its twin jet engines, and you'll have plenty of time to fit in other activities during your day in the city since each tour is only 30 minutes long. Be sure to look out for the green speedboat when you arrive so you know where to go for the most action-packed tour the city has to offer.

Seastreak is famous for its super-efficient and comfy rides, connecting central New Jersey towns like Highlands and Atlantic Highlands directly to bustling Manhattan spots like Wall Street and East 35th Street. But they do more than daily commutes. Throughout the year, you can hop aboard for special event cruises and sightseeing excursions. Imagine spotting whales, enjoying the Fourth of July fireworks from the water, or taking in fall foliage up the Hudson River!

Did you know you can go whale watching in New York City? When you step on board, you'll have the chance to see a variety of whale species and even bottlenose dolphins swimming beside the most famous landmarks. There's also food and beverages on board, so you'll never have to leave the ship to make the day complete. You won't want to miss a second of the views on a fun whale-watching cruise in NYC.

If you want to add some style to your city tour, take a ride on the Bateaux New York Premier Dinner Cruise. This ship seats guests inside a glass deck, giving them the perfect view of the city skyline during their ride. They'll find an elegant dinner waiting for them on board, complete with the finest entrees, salads and desserts on the water. The ship leaves out of Pier 61 in Chelsea Piers and sails along both the East and Hudson Rivers, so you'll have a complete city view.

New York City should be on everyone's bucket list—if it isn't already. A late spring visit to NYC is a great way to enjoy the city and the warm temps—there's no end to the list of wonderful things to eat, see, and do in the Big Apple. Here are a few fantastic ways to enjoy a perfect weekend getaway to New York City this month!

Bringing a focused, French-inspired concept to the city, Medium Rare specializes in doing one thing perfectly: Culotte steak and hand-cut fries. The dining experience is refreshingly simple and convivial, featuring a secret-recipe sauce that has earned a cult following. The three-course meal starts with rustic bread, followed by a salad, and then the main event. With its lively atmosphere and "seconds are on us" policy for steak and fries, it offers a high-value, high-energy meal that removes the stress of a long menu in favor of consistent, delicious execution. Make sure to save room for dessert—the classic dessert options are the perfect ending to a spectacularly classic meal.

Tucked away as a sophisticated neighborhood gem, The Parliament offers an elevated take on the classic Manhattan lounge experience. The interior is characterized by dark wood, plush seating, and a warm, amber glow, making it an ideal spot for an intimate conversation over a masterfully crafted cocktail. Its beverage program leans into the classics while offering creative seasonal rotations, providing a polished retreat for those who appreciate the finer points of mixology in a setting that feels like a private club. Our favorite way to enjoy the atmosphere is with a sophisticated breakfast, before hitting the pavement.

Located within the majestic confines of Grand Central Terminal, Grand Brasserie recaptures the golden age of travel with its soaring ceilings and timeless Parisian flair. The menu celebrates classic French brasserie fare—think oysters, steak frites, and onion soup—served with a level of grandiosity that matches its historic surroundings. You'll probably forget that you're in one of the world's most famous transit stations! Whether you're stopping for a luxurious breakfast before a train or a celebratory dinner under the terminal's iconic arches, it offers a quintessential New York dining experience.

A vibrant burst of color in the city's retail landscape, iCandy, a brand new experiential candy emporium located inside One Times Square, is a paradise for the sweet-toothed and the Instagram-savvy alike. From floor-to-ceiling bins of nostalgic treats to innovative, modern confections, the experience offers a multisensory journey through the world of sugar in a New York-themed immersion you won't find anywhere else. Explore three stories of themed rooms along with sweets and treats to take home. By the end of your visit, you'll have a bucket filled with NYC-themed goodies to remember your trip.

More than just a skyscraper, this Art Deco masterpiece is the definitive symbol of New York's ambition and grit. The iconic Empire State Building may no longer be the only observation deck in the game, but it's certainly the most famous and deserves a spot on your bucket list. Visitors ascending to its 86th and 102nd-floor observatories are rewarded with 360-degree views that stretch across five states on a clear day. The experience is deepened by an immersive museum on the second floor that chronicles the building's legendary construction and its starring role in pop culture, ensuring its status as a bucket-list destination for every traveler.

Transforming the Brooks Atkinson Theatre into a high-octane pop concert, SIX: The Musical reimagines the six wives of Henry VIII as fierce, modern-day divas. Rather than a traditional tragedy, the show is a witty, 80-minute celebration of "her-story," featuring a catchy, chart-topping score that blends contemporary pop with historical sass. With its powerhouse vocals, shimmering costumes, and an all-female band known as the "Ladies in Waiting," the production turns centuries of heartbreak into an empowering anthem of reclaiming one's own narrative.

Perfectly positioned for those who want a residential feel in the heart of Midtown East, The Fifty Sonesta offers spacious, apartment-style suites that cater to both short-term explorers and long-stay travelers. The design is understated and sophisticated, featuring neutral tones and a terrace-level fitness center. It serves as a calm, polished home base just blocks away from the upscale shopping of Fifth Avenue and the architectural marvel of Grand Central Terminal. If you're looking for a truly unrivaled NYC experience, book the East River Suite, for wrap-around balcony views that'll ensure you never want to leave.

Hyatt Herald Square New York captures the energetic industrial history of its neighborhood through clever design details and a vibrant atmosphere. The standout feature is undoubtedly the "Up & Above" rooftop lounge, which provides an intimate, unobstructed view of the Empire State Building. With its central location near Macy's and Penn Station, it's an ideal choice for travelers who want to be in the middle of Manhattan's constant motion while enjoying modern, streamlined comforts.

Housed in the former George Washington Hotel—once a haunt for poets and artists—the Freehand New York brings a bohemian, creative spirit to the Flatiron District. The property is a social hub, blending eclectic, artist-commissioned murals with high-concept dining and drinking venues like the tropical-themed rooftop bar, Broken Shaker. Its communal energy and curated, vintage-inspired rooms make it a favorite for a younger, style-conscious crowd looking for more than just a place to sleep.

Heading farther west is Hell's Kitchen. Known initially as a crime-heavy neighborhood pre-gentrification, Hell's Kitchen began life as a haven for working-class Irish Americans. The bustling neighborhood is now most known for Restaurant Row, located on 46th St.

Later in the 20th century, Hell's Kitchen grew in popularity due to its proximity to Broadway theaters and the Actors Studio. The cost of living at the time was low, making the unpopular neighborhood a hot choice for aspiring actors and artists.

The extreme western edge by the Hudson River boasts the famous WWII aircraft carrier, now the Intrepid Sea, Air & Space Museum, and the famous Circle Line sightseeing boats. Make sure to check online for tour reservations.

Times Square/ Broadway

Times Square stretches from 40th St. to 53rd St. between 8th Ave. and Broadway, at the heart of the Theater District, which is home to 41 professional theaters.

Times Square got its title when The New York Times moved into the area in 1904. Nowadays, the area is known for many of New York's key tourist attractions. These include Madame Tussauds, Dave and Buster's and Spyscape.

If you make your way to the northern section of Times Square, you'll find yourself at the Red Stairs at 47th St. and Broadway—the perfect place for a selfie.

If you're looking for sweets, Hershey's Chocolate World and M&M's World are both just a block north of the Red Stairs.

If midnight is now upon you in Times Square, you're in the right place at the right time. Nightly, beginning three minutes to midnight, Times Square has its Midnight Moment. This display is the world's largest, longest-running digital art exhibition, synchronized on all the electronic billboards throughout Times Square.

Like the Midnight Moment, if you're in New York City around New Year's Eve, don't miss the Times Square ball drop at least once in your lifetime. With over a million annual visitors, it's like a massive party in the City That Never Sleeps and a testament to the statement that Times Square is the “crossroads of the world.”

Midtown East

Spanning from 5th Ave. to the FDR Drive and from 59th St. to 42nd St., Midtown East is right near the buzz of Times Square.

Not to be outshined by Manhattan's famous city center, Midtown East boasts a variety of attractions that you won't find anywhere else in NYC. It's the perfect place to spend a day with family-friendly activities and attractions.

Located right at the heart of Midtown East is Grand Central Terminal. Not just a transportation hub, Grand Central is also a center for dining, shopping and culture. The location has 60 shops, 35 places to eat and many pieces of magnificent architecture, including the whispering arches.

Steps away from Grand Central Terminal is SUMMIT One Vanderbilt. See New York City through glass ledges and elevators and “Air” by Kenzo Digital.

On Fifth Ave., two avenues west of Grand Central, is Bryant Park, a perfect spot to sit and rest while enjoying the daily events. In the winter, the main attractions at the park are the skating rink and the Holiday Shops; in other seasons, main attractions are the lawn, where movie nights and yoga sessions occur, and the game spots, hosting activities like Ping Pong.

Located at the east end of the park is The New York Public Library, home to over 50 million items and almost 100 locations.

Going up Fifth Ave., you'll find St. Patrick's Cathedral on 50th St., a 339-foot-tall cathedral home to many religious works of art, musical instruments and architecture that never ceases to impress.

Continue north, and stroll through one of the most glamorous shopping districts, which hosts Saks Fifth Avenue, Bergdorf Goodman, Tiffany & Co. and other high-end stores. You can shop (or window shop) through some of the best shops in New York City (and the world). No matter what you're looking for, you'll find it in New York City.

Going to FDR Dr. on the other side of Midtown East is the globally recognized United Nations from 48th St. to 42nd St. With an art collection rivaling NYC's museums, this location is an international landmark. Check online for tours.

Central Midtown

Central Midtown boasts a few major sites of its own, including the famous Empire State Building. This building is a National Historic Landmark. Built in just 410 days, it is 102-stories high with marvelous views. If you wait until dark, see what color the Empire State Building is sporting. They change based on holidays or commemorative events.

For a more adult experience, the Museum of Sex is located a few blocks from the Empire State Building. Also in Central Midtown is the enormous Macy's flagship store. Sitting on one entire city block, it is one of the largest (and most famous) department stores in the world.

The Upper West Side starts at Columbus Circle, where Broadway meets 59th St., 8th Ave., Central Park South and Central Park West. This mesh of streets join to form Columbus Circle. The Time Warner complex here houses some exquisite shops and Jazz at Lincoln Center.

One of the largest cultural complexes in the world is also nearby on 63rd St. and Columbus Ave. Lincoln Center is a sleek set of buildings that house some of the most remarkable arts and entertainment in the city, including the Metropolitan Opera, the New York City Ballet and the New York Philharmonic.

Farther uptown, visit the American Museum of Natural History. The massive hanging whale, the largest dinosaur skeleton of the Titanosaur and the state-of-the-art Rose Center for Earth and Space, locally known as The Planetarium, are both attractions you won't want to miss. Next door, find the New York Historical Society Museum.

Along Amsterdam Ave., you'll be able to see for yourself why the Avenue is known for its abundance of genuinely outstanding restaurants.

Starting around 110th Street, you'll find yourself in Morningside Heights, home to the Jewish Theological Seminary, Columbia University and Barnard College campuses. See the breathtaking St. John the Divine, one of the area's must sees. Grant's Tomb is a few blocks away.

Central Park

You can get a carriage ride at the 59th Street end of the park. These rides can last either 20 minutes or 45 minutes, and your friendly guide will provide facts about Central Park throughout the trip.

One of the many sites in the park includes the Central Park Zoo. Located on 64th St. and 5th Ave., the zoo is home to leopards, red pandas, snow monkeys, sea lions and many more animals. It's a perfect place to spend a whole afternoon with family or friends.

Toward the middle of the park, in the area between 72nd St. and 84th St., you will come upon Strawberry Fields, a beautiful memorial dedicated Next to Strawberry Fields is The Dakota. Built in 1884, The Dakota is considered one of Manhattan's most luxurious residential buildings and was at one point home to Lennon from 1973 until his death in the building's archways in 1980.

Upper East Side/Yorkville

Blocks of elegant mansions and townhouses characterize the Upper East Side, once known as the Silk Stocking District, because the city's wealthiest people lived there, especially along Park, Madison and Fifth Avenues. This neighborhood continues to be some of the most coveted real estate in all of New York City.

The area above 82nd St. and 5th Ave., up to 105th St., is known as Museum Mile. This beautiful stretch along Central Park is where you can find the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum, El Museo del Barrio, the Museum of the City of New York, the Jewish Museum, the Cooper Hewitt National Design Museum, the Frick Collection and the Neue Galerie.

On 83rd St. is the last remaining original luncheonette in New York City, the Lexington Candy Shop. This adorable sweet shop is a reminder of a bygone era where soda fountains and luncheonettes staples of virtually all New York City neighborhoods.

A few blocks over from Lexington Candy Shop is Gracie Mansion, designated the official residence of the Mayor of New York. This house is intended to serve as a "People's house," a title that set a standard for the municipality and public access at the time of the building's conception.

Washington Heights/Inwood

Take a trip to the top of Manhattan, to Washington Heights and Inwood. This New York City neighborhood, lying right along the majestic George Washington Bridge, was first settled by the Irish, later by European Jews escaping WWII and finally by the Latino community, making it a great place to find authentic Latin cuisine.

Start with a visit to Fort Tryon Park, home to The Cloisters, an art museum built from reconstructed medieval Chapels and Abbeys originally brought over from Europe. It is now part of The Metropolitan Museum of Art. Fort Tryon Park is the highest point in New York City, with incredible Hudson River views. During the Revolutionary War, the park was an active fort and served as a strategic military lookout. Also, in the Heights, visitors will delight to see Manhattan's only lighthouse, the Little Red Lighthouse.

Another famous spot is the High Bridge, the oldest bridge in New York City. Opened in 1848 as part of the Croton Aqueduct, the bridge has since been turned into a pedestrian walkway over the East River.

Harlem

North of Central Park lies Harlem, a vibrant neighborhood long synonymous with African-American culture. Today you can find charming brownstones and museums, such as the National Jazz Museum. This museum was conceived in 1995 and is dedicated to the education and preservation of jazz history.

If you're looking for some great cuisine, stop by Minton's, the birthplace of bebop, a type of jazz. Artists like Duke Ellington, Louis Armstrong and Ella Fitzgerald performed here. The food is southern comfort style, with classics such as shrimp and grits. Other incredible restaurants include the popular Red Rooster, Sylvia's Queen of Soul Food, Dinosaur Bar-B-Que and Amy Ruth's, a restaurant that boasts 14 takes on chicken and waffles.

Financial District/Lower Manhattan

When visitors think about the Financial District, the first thing that comes to mind is the World Trade Center. This stunning and beautiful building commemorates the victims of 9/11. The National September 11 Memorial and Museum consists of a museum depicting the 9/11 events as well as a beautiful outdoor memorial featuring two enormous waterfalls and reflecting pools. Each pool is about an acre in size, and are set within the footprints of the original Twin Towers. The 9/11 Tribute Center is an additional stopping point to get an in-depth look at 9/11, its aftermath and the tragic event's impact on the entire nation.

For visitors and locals that want to get an incredible birdseye view of Manhattan, One World Observatory is the place to go. Other great views can be had from the river via City Cruises at the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island. Reached by boat from Battery Park, the statue stands tall and proud as a symbol of liberty, while Ellis Island, once a gateway into the United States and at point the biggest immigration inspection one station, is now a museum. Find records of possible family members who passed through or just revel in the history.

Back on land are Westfield and Brookfield Place. These complexes house shops, restaurants and more. One of the eatery highlights at Brookfield Place is Le District—a French-inspired marketplace where visitors and locals can purchase everything from ready-to-eat meals to ingredients for their own gourmet creations.

Across the street from Brookfield Place, you can find the beautiful Irish Hunger Memorial, which commemorates the Great Irish Famine and is a reminder "that hunger today is often the result of lack of access to land." Nearby on the west side, you'll find the Museum of Jewish Heritage: A Living Memorial to the Holocaust. This educational museum is fully dedicated to the Holocaust and other events of WWII. Right up the street from this memorial is the Charging Bull statue. This statue took over two years to complete and weighs over three and a half tons.

Walk a few blocks north to view the New York Stock Exchange, where brokers and traders are constantly buying and trading stocks. Across the street is Federal Hall National Memorial. Built in 1842 as the United States Custom House, on the site of the old Federal Hall. It later served as a sub-Treasury building and is now operated by the National Park Service. Imagine standing in the very spot where George Washington did! The Federal Reserve is two blocks up and the facility has special Gold tours of its vaults.

Heading eastward is Seaport District. This Manhattan location features some of the oldest architecture downtown, which includes renovated mercantile buildings, sailing ships, restaurants and shops. At the most southern tip of Manhattan is the Staten Island Ferry. From here, you can take a ferry to Staten Island for free (it has excellent views of the Statue of Liberty!). Ferries depart every half hour.

Tribeca

Tribeca, which stands below Canal Street, has become a coveted neighborhood art galleries and sophisticated restaurants. Known for its low crime rates and excellent schools, Tribeca is a very residential area, home to many renowned celebrities and a number of wealthy New Yorkers.

Tribeca is also home to some of the best architecture in New York City. You can find the "Jenga" building here (56 Leonard St.) or walk down Staple Street to see the skybridge. here (56 Leonard St.) or walk down Staple Street to see the skybridge.

Chinatown

When in Chinatown, take a more scholastic approach to culture and visit the Museum of Chinese in America. This museum gives an in-depth look into the lives of Chinese-Americans, their role in American culture, and their journey to the United States. A place more centric to Chinatown worth visiting is Canal Street. Chinatown's Canal Street has the feel of an open-air bazaar. Here you can bargain for unique products among a large assortment of items.

Take a shopping break and make your way to The Original Chinatown Ice Cream Factory. This "family-owned business adds a twist to one of America's favorite desserts by introducing new Chinese-influenced flavors to this cold treat."

Take a peek at Columbus Park. This historically significant park is in the heart of Chinatown by Baxter St., and Bayard St. Some parts of the park are filled with numerous card players and masters of Mahjong, and other areas are often filled with various people practicing tai chi and kung fu.

Soho/ Little Italy

Little Italy borders Chinatown, another extremely cultural part of the city. Initially, Little Italy was a large 30-block section of the Lower East Side. Now it has condensed to a couple of blocks centered around Mulberry Street. Although Little Italy isn't large; it is packed with things to see and a unique atmosphere in which to immerse yourself.

Architecture fans may enjoy the buildings in this area, most from the late 19th and early 20th centuries. One of the best things about Little Italy is the food culture. Dozens of amazing Italian restaurants are packed into this portion of Manhattan.

When it comes to SoHo, which stands for South of Houston Street, the most common thing to do is shop. Going down Broadway, you can find a multitude of bars with outdoor seating, boutiques and dozens of name brands making their home in this area with big names such as Adidas, Victoria's Secret, Uniqlo and H&M, to name a few. What many people don't know, though, is that on many of the side streets parallel to Broadway, you can find other stores and shops to browse in—another part of Manhattan worth exploring. There are over 40 galleries in SoHo.

The Tenement Museum is one of the most popular attractions in the area. This museum can only be seen via guided tours and in small groups, so make sure to book in advance. The tour takes visitors through apartment buildings that give a first-hand view of how local residents lived.

Lower East Side

The Lower East Side has a rich history dating back to the large number of immigrants who settled in the area back in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. Today it's a bustling neighborhood with an active foodie and nightlife scene, but you can still find traces of the community that shaped the area.

The New Museum provides visitors with more contemporary art through its rotating and changing collection. Today, the Lower East Side is the neighborhood to visit to try one of the many trendy new restaurants, bars, galleries and music venues.

If you're looking for an authentic New York experience, head to Katz's Delicatessen, where you can find some of the best pastrami sandwiches in the world. Since its founding in 1888, this deli has found popularity among locals and tourists alike. Stop in at Russ & Daughters if you're looking for a genuinely delicious taste of New York.

West Village

The West Village, between 14th St. and W. Houston St. and 6th Ave. to the Hudson River, is known to be one of the NYC centers with some of history's most and influential social movements for the LGBTQIA+ community. The community and allies here played a significant role in the gay-rights movement.

Examples of the neighborhood's dedication to inclusion, tolerance and the history of the area are the Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual & Transgender Community Center and the beautiful NYC AIDS Memorial located in St. Vincent's Triangle Park. The West Village is also home to Stonewall Inn, now a bar and recreational tavern. Stonewall Inn was the location of the Stonewall Riots in 1969, considered the single most important event leading to the gay liberation movement and the modern fight for gay and lesbian rights in the United States.

Another significant park is Washington Square Park, which serves as a focal point for the West Village. It is frequently visited by tourists and photographers for its arch, which resembles Paris' Arc de Triomphe on a much smaller scale. On many warm days, you can find crowds enjoying the park for the performers, musicians, and the beautiful fountain.

Head past the park to the area where MacDougal St. meets Bleecker St., and you'll find yourself in a sea of fantastic music venues, comedy clubs and restaurants. Here you can find numerous venues where many famous artists such as Jimi Hendrix and Bob Dylan once performed.

You can also stop at Caffe Reggiao—the first U.S. cafe to serve a cappuccino back in 1927. Just down the block is the Comedy Cellar, where big-time comedians are known to stop by to test out new material. You never know who you might run into.

East Village

You can find the East Village east of the Bowery between Houston St. and 14th St., where Manhattan extends to the East River, and the avenues start going by letters instead of numbers.

Despite the passing of time, the East Village still retains all of the grit for which the area was once known.

The East Village is most known for its nightlife and restaurants. St. Marks is a wonderful hub in itself, with several bars and restaurants lining 8th St. between 3rd and 2nd Ave. This is also where you'll find La MaMa Experimental Theater Club, one of New York City's respected experimental theater companies since the 1960s.

In the center of the East Village is Tompkins Square Park. The park hosts performances all the time, like the outdoor drag festival Wigstock, the Howl Festival and the Jazz Festival.

Meatpacking District

The small slice of Manhattan that runs from Gansevoort St. to West 14th St. and from Hudson St. to the Hudson River has quickly grown into one of Manhattan's most glamorous neighborhoods. Starting in the 1900s, the Meatpacking District was primarily composed of a wide variety of meatpacking plants, but has evolved into a bustling hive of late-night hot spots, hotels and nightclubs.

Take a stroll on the High Line—it was built as a railroad to deliver products to buildings along the route. One interesting fact about the area: the Meatpacking District was actually the original birthplace of the beloved Oreo Cookie.

For a fun coffee experience, make a visit to the Starbucks Reserve Roastery. Visit the Whitney Museum of American Art—this culturally charged museum has excellent outdoor views. If you're looking for more views, go to the Top of the Standard.

Union Square/ Flatiron

Union Square has long been a center for political demonstrations, starting in 1861 with the Great Sumter Rally and later hosting labor union rallies, Occupy Wall Street protesters and serving as a gathering point for those mourning the 9/11 attacks.

Stretching from 14th to 17th St. and from Union Square West to Union Square East, the lush greenery makes it perfect for gatherings. On Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays, this park hosts the Union Square Greenmarket. Browse for fresh produce, flowers, and more alongside top chefs shopping for ingredients.

Madison Square Park sits in the Flatiron District from 23rd to 26th St., between Madison Ave. and 5th Ave. Get an amazing view of the Flatiron Building—the iconic triangular building completed in 1902—from the park. Take a trip through Eataly, an Italian marketplace with restaurants, cooking demonstrations, Italian food products and bakeries.

Another great park in the Flatiron district is Gramercy Park—a park developed in the 1830s to resemble a London Square. If you do go to see Gramercy Park, don't expect to go inside the park. Unfortunately, the most you can do is look at it from the outside since you need a very exclusive key to enter the park. There are around 400 keys, and only residents of the Gramercy Park area have them.

Fotografiska New York aims to inspire a more conscious world through the power of photography. Founded in Stockholm in 2010, Fotografiska opened its NYC outpost in the treasured, six-floor historic building in the Flatiron District.

Chelsea

Chelsea can be found north of the West Village between 14th St. and 29th St. This part of Manhattan was once an industrial area but has since been developed into a highly coveted residential area. With over 200 gallery spaces (including the Gagosian), Chelsea is the perfect place to wander through some of the best art in New York City.

Right underneath the High Line, which starts in the Meatpacking District, on 15th St., you can find Chelsea Market, which is known as a food emporium of sorts. You can get just about anything from delicious fresh lobster to milk from a milk bar. Shoppers can find something for everyone at Chelsea Market.

A little farther up is Chelsea Piers. Chelsea Piers is most known for its golfing range, but the sports complex has an entire menu of activities from which to select. These include ice skating, basketball and even rock climbing. There's an activity for everyone here.

Located on 17th St. between 7th and 6th Ave., you can find the Rubin Museum of Art. This museum is dedicated to the preservation of the art and cultures of the Himalayas, India and neighboring regions. The museum is built in the shape of a tower, where each floor's design gives the feel of climbing a mountain; the bottom floor is the base of the mountain, and the top floor is at the peak, way above the clouds.

If you're looking for a truly exciting evening, and if there is a specific show or game that you're interested in seeing, then Madison Square Garden is the place to be. The venue is known as "The World's Most Famous Arena" for a good reason.

Hudson Yards

Set atop rail yards, Hudson Yards is altering the Hudson River skyline with its rising skyscrapers. New York's newest neighborhood is home to more than 100 shops and delicious culinary experiences featuring restaurants from celebrity chefs like David Chang and José Andrés.

If you're in search of the perfect sweet treat or souvenir, you're sure to find it here. Hudson Yards is also home to public art and cultural institutions, including The Shed, 14 acres of public plazas, gardens, and Equinox Hotel®.

Hudson Yards is another ideal location to spend an afternoon or an entire day. Visit various shops and enjoy numerous dining outlets. Last but not least, make a visit to Edge. With a one-of-a-kind design, Edge is suspended in mid-air. Have a look 100 stories down and lean out over the city for a view on angled glass.

DUMBO

Just across the Brooklyn and Manhattan Bridges, you'll find DUMBO (an acronym for Down Under the Manhattan Bridge Overpass). The area received its name in the 1970s when it was mostly an industrial district, and artists began flocking to the area, attracted by spacious lofts and cheaper rents.

Today, DUMBO is known for its stunning views of the Manhattan skyline, with the Brooklyn Bridge looming in the foreground (especially at Brooklyn Bridge Park). The neighborhood is a foodie's paradise, with eateries such as Grimaldi's Pizzeria, and has fantastic thrifting at Brooklyn Flea, which features a curated collection of vendors selling vintage and handmade items. Jane's Carousel, which is over 100 years old, has been beautifully restored for both tourists and locals alike.

These neighborhoods have a rich history and vibrant culture that attract locals and tourists alike. Downtown Brooklyn is home to the New York Transit Museum, where visitors can learn about the city's extensive transportation system, while the Brooklyn War Memorial at Cadman Plaza Park pays homage to the brave soldiers who valiantly fought in World War II.

It combines natural beauty with important cultural institutions, such as the New York Hall of Science and the Queens Museum, which houses an impressive collection of art and artifacts related to the city's history.

FIFA WORLD CUP 2026

What to Know Before You Go

Whether you're a die-hard soccer fan from across the globe or a local resident navigating the tournament buzz, the NYNJ FIFA World Cup 2026™ New York New Jersey Host Committee and NJ TRANSIT have launched a comprehensive Regional Stadium Mobility Plan. Coordinated with transit partners across both states, this plan is designed with safety, simplicity, and clear routes in mind.

Before you head out to join the sea of jerseys and chants, here is the absolute essential information you need to know to get around and make the most of your 2026 World Cup experience.

Plan Ahead- It's a Must!

Because the tournament will bring a massive influx of visitors and activity to the region, spontaneous travel to the stadium will not be an option. To ensure a smooth journey, keep these critical ground rules in mind:

- No General Parking: There will be no general spectator parking on Stadium property on matchdays. Leaving the car at home is your best bet.
- Ticket Checks Before Boarding: Access to matchday transit services is highly restricted. A valid FIFA World Cup 2026™ match ticket is required to purchase transportation and access matchday services.
- Non-Transferable Transit: All dedicated transportation tickets are non-transferable and non-refundable, and they will be thoroughly checked before boarding.

Getting to NYNJ Stadium: Your Transit Options

Access to the stadium grounds will be strictly limited to approved regional transit pathways. To experience matchday energy without the stress, you must rely on the specialized routes carefully outlined in the Regional Stadium Mobility Plan.

While specific boarding locations and dedicated shuttle details are still being finalized, travel options will primarily focus on mass transit systems designed to move tens of thousands of World Cup fans efficiently:

1. NJ TRANSIT Rail Service

Expect robust train connections running directly to the stadium area. Fans traveling from Manhattan will be able to transit through NYC's Penn Station over to New Jersey, utilizing the seamless rail link to get straight to the gates.

2. Dedicated Express Bus & Shuttle Routes

Specialized park-and-ride options and express bus services will be deployed from key hubs across both New York and New Jersey. These buses will utilize clear, dedicated routes to bypass all the standard traffic and drop fans off directly at the stadium perimeter.

3. Rideshare & Charter Drop-Offs

Dedicated zones will be designated for rideshare apps and pre-approved charter buses. Because traffic around the venue will be heavily managed, using these designated zones will be the only way to be dropped off near the stadium.

Where to Stay

Finding the perfect base camp for your World Cup adventure requires fast action. Unsurprisingly, thousands of hotels across New York City and Northern New Jersey have sold out months in advance, and remaining rooms are at an absolute premium.

Whether you want to stay in the heart of Manhattan for the nightlife or close to a transit hub in New Jersey for easy stadium access, you need to lock down your hotel accommodations immediately. Be sure to check our hotel guide for comprehensive hotel listings and full click-through details to secure your booking before hotel options completely vanish.

What to See & Do

When you aren't at the stadium cheering on your country, the region offers an endless array of world-class entertainment and sightseeing. However, standard New York summer crowds combined with global sports fans will result in unprecedented wait times.

- Top Attractions: From iconic observation decks to historic landmarks, attractions will be operating at peak capacity. Many top spots require timed-entry slots, and these packages may sell out. We highly recommend purchasing your tickets far in advance to guarantee your spot, especially for those strict timed-entry windows. Explore our attractions section to plan your sightseeing itinerary.
- Broadway & Live Entertainment: World-class shows and theater productions are booking fast as fans look to fill their non-match

Make sure to head over to our entertainment section to look through local venues, discover show favorites, and lock in your theater seats before they sell out.

Where to Eat

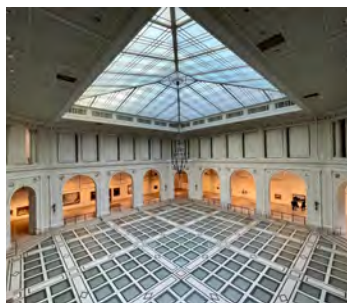

The culinary scene in New York and New Jersey is genuinely unmatched, offering everything from legendary street food and budget eats to Michelin-starred dining you won't find anywhere else. During the tournament, the region's best eateries will be the ultimate gathering spots for fans worldwide.

Because of the massive surge in visitors, walk-ins at popular spots will be incredibly difficult to come by. We highly suggest checking out our dining section to discover the best neighborhoods, local gems, and flavor profiles that the Big Apple has to offer.

Once you spot a place you love, make your dining reservations as soon as possible to ensure you don't miss out on a great NYC pre or post-match meal. There are plenty of places in NYC to enjoy a meal in any budget range; however, expect lines and crowds just about anywhere you go.

A LOOK AT MASQUERADE

The legendary specter haunting New York theater has once again found its grip on the heart of the Big Apple. The Drama Desk and Off-Broadway Alliance Award winning immersive phenomenon MASQUERADE has extended its run due to overwhelming popular demand at 218 West 57th Street through January 31, 2027.

Based on the legendary musical The Phantom of the Opera—originally featuring music by Andrew Lloyd Webber, lyrics by Charles Hart, additional lyrics by Richard Stilgoe, and a book by Stilgoe and Lloyd Webber—this production reimagines the classic tale by shattering the fourth wall entirely. Presented by arrangement with Lloyd Webber Entertainment, the production is spearheaded by a powerhouse creative trio: creator and director Diane Paulus, creator and composer Andrew Lloyd Webber, and creator and producer Randy Weiner. Together with creative director Shai Baitel and producer Asher Young, the team has successfully breathed new life into a historic mystery that has never been fully solved.

Rather than watching the drama unfold from a distant velvet seat, Masquerade invites its audience directly into the shifting, shadowy world of the Opéra Populaire. Guests are granted unprecedented access to wander through the narrative, exploring spaces that stretch from the highest heights of the opera house rooftops down to the dark, watery subterranean lair of the Phantom himself. The boundary between reality and theatrical illusion fades completely as attendees explore backstage dressing rooms alongside the actors.

This audacious approach to a beloved property has left critics uniformly dazzled. The New York Times lauded the experience as “Breathlessly exciting... It is wonderful to be in arm’s length of the boat, to be taken by the hand by Christine or Madame Giry, to race in anticipation of what the next room might hold.” The production has injected a distinct vitality into the Midtown Theater District, filling a void left by traditional stagings. The New York Post declared it “A sexy, hot ticket... The Phantom may have vanished from the Majestic Theatre, but there’s plenty of majesty to be found on 57th Street.” In a similar vein, The Daily Beast promised audiences a Phantom of the Opera as you’ve never experienced before,” while Time Out New York deemed it “A marvel... get dressed up, hide your face, and give yourself over to the phantasy.”

For those eager to lose themselves in the music of the night, performances run weekly from Tuesday through Sunday, with specialized matinee options available on both Saturdays and Sundays. Standard tickets are readily available online at the official box office hub, www.masqueradenyc.com.

NYC'S FIVE BOROUGHES

DISCOVER NEW SIGHTS AND SOUNDS IN EACH PLACE.

Whether you are planning your first trip or looking to expand your horizons beyond Times Square, here is a breakdown of what makes each of NYC's five boroughs uniquely remarkable.

01 Manhattan: The Center Stage

Manhattan is the iconic, fast-paced heart of New York City. Geographically the smallest borough, it holds the highest concentration of world-famous landmarks. This narrow island is home to the bright lights of Broadway, the sprawling greenery of Central Park, the towering height of the Empire State Building, and the financial engine of Wall Street. Divided into distinct neighborhoods like SoHo, Greenwich Village, Harlem, and the Upper East Side, Manhattan offers endless vertical architecture, premier shopping corridors, and historic cultural institutions.

02 Brooklyn: The Cultural Trendsetter

Located just across the East River via the historic Brooklyn Bridge, Brooklyn is New York's most populous borough. Known globally as a hub for creativity, music, and distinct neighborhood culture, it seamlessly blends historic brownstones with cutting-edge trendsetting styles. Visitors can explore the waterfront warehouses of DUMBO, the vintage boutiques of Williamsburg, and the scenic paths of Prospect Park. For a taste of classic seaside nostalgia, Brooklyn also boasts the legendary boardwalk, amusement parks, and beaches of Coney Island.

03 Queens: The Global Melting Pot

Queens holds the title of the most ethnically diverse urban area in the entire world. Geographically, the largest of the five boroughs, its unparalleled cultural mosaic is best experienced through its legendary food scene, where you can find authentic cuisine from almost every corner of the globe. Queens is a sports and arts powerhouse, hosting the US Open tennis tournament at Flushing Meadows–Corona Park and housing the Museum of the Moving Image. It also serves as the city's gateway, containing both JFK International and LaGuardia airports.

04 The Bronx: The Cradle of Culture

As the only borough primarily attached to the United States mainland, the Bronx possesses a deep and influential cultural legacy. It is globally recognized as the birthplace of hip-hop, a movement that started at local block parties in the 1970s and reshaped the global music landscape. Sports fans flock here to visit the legendary Yankee Stadium, home of the New York Yankees. The borough is also renowned for its vast green spaces, notably the world-famous Bronx Zoo and the sprawling New York Botanical Garden.

05 Staten Island: The Greenest Borough

Positioned in New York Harbor, Staten Island offers a more relaxed, suburban pace compared to its bustling neighbors. Frequently called "the greenest borough," it features thousands of acres of protected parkland, scenic hiking trails, and historic colonial villages. The journey to the island is an attraction in itself; the iconic, free Staten Island Ferry carries commuters and travelers across the water daily, providing some of the absolute best close-up views of the Statue of Liberty and the sweeping Lower Manhattan skyline.

GUIDE TO NYC TRANSPORT

There are plenty of ways to navigate the concrete jungle and numerous modes of transportation to get you from point A to point B. While the city is certainly walkable, we often need a little extra help getting around. New York City is known for its bustling streets, unique attractions, and diverse culture. For visitors and locals alike, getting around the city is a breeze with its wide array of transportation options. New Yorkers and travelers have access to a multitude of choices when it comes to moving throughout their busy urban landscape.

From taxi cabs and ride-shares to public buses, subways, ferries and even bike share systems, navigating the five boroughs has never been easier or more convenient. Whether you're traveling from uptown to downtown or from one side of the city to another, there's an option for everyone.

- Rideshare has become increasingly popular all around the country, and it's no different in NYC. Remember that surge pricing can be unpredictable and shorter rides can still be fairly costly. Be prepared and plot alternatives just in case.
- The New York City subway system is the largest of its kind in the United States, with over 24 lines and 472 stations. Over five million passengers ride it daily. The subway is perfect for quick stops and longer rides all the way across town.
- The iconic yellow cab is one of the oldest and most popular ways to get around NYC. All you need to do is hail one on the street corner or use an app like Curb to call one or schedule a pick-up for events or easy trips to the airport.
- The ferry system in New York is one of the oldest forms of transportation in the city. Today, these ferries span multiple waterways, including the Hudson River, East River, and Staten Island Ferry, allowing passengers to access various boroughs.
- For those looking for a bit more adventure while exploring the city's many sights and sounds, consider taking advantage of Citi Bike—New York's own bicycle sharing program, complete with thousands of bikes located all over Manhattan.
- Public buses in New York offer convenient and low-cost transportation for tourists and locals alike. With over 5,800 vehicles operating 24/7 across the five boroughs, these bus routes provide easy access to attractions and neighborhoods.

SUMMER TRAVEL STAPLES

As vacation season kicks into high gear, the excitement of mapping out the perfect getaway is often met with the challenge of packing the right gear.

Long flights, harsh UV rays, and beach days require a curated lineup of travel essentials designed to keep you comfortable, protected, and effortlessly stylish on the go. From innovative comfort solutions and weightless sun defense to upcycled coastal accessories, we have rounded up the definitive upgrades your suitcase needs. These editor-approved staples ensure you stay refreshed, radiant, and ready for adventure from the moment you leave the tarmac.

BEAUTY OF JOSEON- DAYSCREEN MOISTURIZER SPF 30 AND DAY DEW SUNSCREEN SPF 50

Beat the summer heat with two lightweight skincare essentials from Beauty of Joseon that deliver flawless protection without clogging your pores. The NEW Dayscreen Moisturizer SPF 30 is the ultimate hot-weather multitasker, combining your morning lotion and sun defense into a single, weightless step that won't melt off in the humidity. When you need heavy-duty coverage for long days in the sun, the cult-favorite Day Dew Sunscreen SPF 50 offers maximum UV protection with zero white cast or greasy residue. It absorbs instantly, leaving behind a fresh, sweat-friendly glow that behaves beautifully under summer makeup or on bare, beach-ready skin.

CABEAU EVOLUTION X TRAVEL NECK PILLOW

We've talked about it before, but the Evolution X travel pillow from Cabeau is still one of our favorite companions, and it belongs at the very top of your summer travel staples list. Engineered to eliminate the dreaded middle-seat neck strain during long flights and road trips, this premium memory foam pillow offers a full 360-degree support system featuring raised side cushions and an adjustable toggle clasp for a customized fit. Unlike bulky, heat-trapping traditional pillows, its soft, breathable fabric ensures you stay cool in stuffy cabins, while the responsive foam effortlessly compresses into a compact carrying case that clips onto your carry-on. It is a masterclass in portable comfort, ensuring you arrive at your warm-weather destination feeling entirely restored and ready to hit the group running rather than exhausted from the journey.

FENTY SKIN GUAVA GOODIEZ DUO

Transport your senses to a tropical paradise with Rihanna’s viral, sun-soaked fragrance profile, making a grand return in a travel-ready, barrier-strengthening duo just in time for your summer getaways. Infused with a luscious blend of pink guava, smooth coconut water, and fresh gardenia, this TSA-approved set features a conditioning lip treatment that locks in moisture with botanical oils for a subtle, juicy tint, paired with the famously decadent whipped body cream. Packed with rich butters and essential plant oils, the non-sticky formula melts effortlessly into the skin to drastically boost elasticity and leave behind a gorgeous, luminous sheen.

SEA BAGS TOTES

Embrace coastal style with a purpose by carrying a tote that has its own nautical history. Handcrafted right on the Maine waterfront, these rugged bags and accessories are entirely upcycled from authentic, retired boat sails, saving hundreds of tons of fabric from taking up space in landfills. Because every item is cut from weathered materials that once battled the wind and saltwater, each finished piece retains its own unique character marks, original stitching, and ocean-tested durability. Finished with marine-grade rope handles, these sustainable totes are built to withstand heavy loads, sandy beaches, and everyday adventures while celebrating a deep love for the sea.

MADISON REED HAIR COLOR

Achieving a professional-quality hair transformation ahead of beach season does not require a costly salon appointment. Madison Reed offers the ultimate budget-friendly summer refresh, delivering gorgeous, multi-dimensional color right at home for a fraction of the price. Whether you want to lighten your shade for the warmer weather or seamlessly mask grays before a vacation, their ammonia-free formulas provide rich, lasting pigmentation that respects the integrity of your hair. Infused with nourishing ingredients like argan oil and keratin, this easy-to-use treatment leaves strands exceptionally soft, glossy, and fortified against summer elements like chlorine and saltwater.

QUAI BOND REPAIR BALM

Revitalizing compromised strands no longer requires a lengthy, multi-step regimen or an overcomplicated routine. The Bond Repair Balm completely disrupts the traditional intensive treatment market by acting as a total conditioner replacement, reversing structural damage in three minutes. While standard bond-builders demand extended leave-in times, this fast-acting formula streamlines your shower routine by utilizing a robust complex of vegan silk protein, hyaluronic acid, and rice peptides to strengthen the hair barrier.
